FRIDAY NOV 20 BROWN BAG LUNCH

Fair Game: Writing and reading a restaurant review

Ever wonder what it takes to be a food reviewer? How does a professional food critic go about writing a restaurant review? How to be fair, be honest and be trusted by both the reader and the chef? Which reviews to trust? How can a reader learn to read between the lines? Want to know how to make your online dining reviews stand out from the crowd?

With Alison Arnett, the Boston Globe's restaurant critic in a 15-year period of expansive growth and creativity, and chief food writer reporting and writing about nutrition, agriculture, trends, fads, cookbooks and personalities in the food business.
